How Education ~~Can~~^{So} Prevent Crime

In ~~more~~ modern society, there is ~~an~~^{an} ongoing ~~debate~~ about whether prison sentences or education provide a more effective solution to crime. While prisons isolate offenders, education addresses the deeper causes of criminal behavior and offers a ~~sustainable~~^{more} path to prevention.

Firstly, education reduces crime by ~~tackling~~^{tackling} its root causes. ~~Poverty, in~~ Poverty, unemployment, and lack of skills often drive people ~~to~~ toward ~~the~~ illegal activities. ~~Without~~ Without ~~proper education~~^{proper education} schooling, individuals have limited job opportunities and unstable income, which increases crime risk. Education ~~equips~~^{wow!!} equips people with qualifications, life skills, and values, guiding them towards lawful and productive lives. For instance, in parts of Colombia, poor access to ~~access to~~^{or} education has been linked to ~~the~~ high youth crime rates.

Secondly, education increases employment opportunities. By providing training ^{in practical} ~~and useful~~ skills, it enhances competitiveness in the job market. Stable employment reduces financial pressure and gives individuals a sense of purpose and belonging, lowering the chance of committing crimes.

① In conclusion, while prisons remain necessary in certain cases, education is a more effective and positive approach to crime prevention. It promotes opportunity, stability, and long-term social progress.

标题大小写规则 (Title Case)

应大写的:

*第一个和最后一个词 (不论词性)

*所有 名词 (nouns)、动词 (verbs)、形容词 (adjectives)、副词 (adverbs) 和 代词 (pronouns)

通常不大写的:

冠词 (a, an, the)

介词 (in, on, at, of...)

连词 (and, but, or...)

课堂练习:

benefits of a healthy lifestyle ➡ Benefits of a Healthy Lifestyle

a day in the life of a teenager ➡ A Day in the Life of a Teenager exploring the history of london ➡ Exploring the History of London debate (辩论、讨论) ➡ 可数名词，前面要加冠词

Body Paragraph 1

Firstly, education reduces crime by tacking its root causes.

Firstly, education reduces crime by tackling its root causes.

① 这句 “point” 写得很好!

② Tacking ➡ Spelling mistake (should be tackling)

顺便复习关于 “解决” 的表达:

Solve a problem / an issue / a crisis

Resolve OR settle a conflict / a dispute

其他: fix / deal with / handle / address / tackle ...

Without schooling, individuals have limited job opportunities and unstable income...

Without proper education,
individuals have limited job opportunities and unstable income...

schooling 和 education 的区别:

① schooling ➡ 上学、学校教育 ➡ 在校期间的学习经历

② education ➡ 泛指“教育”包括家庭、社会、学校中的知识、技能、价值观的培养

Forrest 原文指的是：没有良好的教育，而不是单单指学校教育

Body Paragraph 2

By providing training and useful skills, it enhances...

By providing training in practical skills, it enhances...

① training ➡ 训练的过程

② skills ➡ 通过训练获得的结果

提供训练和技能 X

提供关于实践技能的培训 V

*因果关系 ➡ 培训的内容是 practical skills

改写Body Paragraph 2:

论点：Secondly, education increases employment opportunities.

1. 分析“就业市场形势”:

As we all know, the modern job market becomes increasingly competitive. Employers prefer talented and skillful candidates with experience. As employees, they will be more outstanding if they are well-educated. Through proper education, individuals can develop not only theoretical knowledge but also essential soft skills such as communication, teamwork, and problem-solving.

2. 连接教育与降低犯罪的逻辑链:

By providing training in practical skills, education enhances people's competitiveness in job markets. Stable employment, in turn, reduces financial pressure and gives individuals a sense of purpose and belonging, lowering chance of engaging in criminal behavior.

3. 举例或进一步解释:

For example, in many developed / developing countries / regions, government invests in education to insure that most of the people are well-prepared for the job markets with employable skills, leading to higher job stability and lower crime rates.

Homework 2 - Summary

Hammarby Lake City

an environmentally friendly place to live

Hammarby Lake City is a housing development project in Sweden. It is located to the south-east of the capital city, Stockholm. The design of Hammarby includes a range of conservation measures, such as using energy more efficiently compared to the rest of Sweden. For example, Hammarby produces its own heating and electricity for residents to use by burning some of its household rubbish, and there is a very effective system in place to do this.

Another important part of the design is that rainwater is recycled. After it has rained, the water is saved and channelled into specially created small lakes and streams. These features in an urban environment help to make the neighbourhoods more attractive places to live, and they also provide a habitat for wildlife.

Hammarby is the first city for many years where a tram-line has been built to provide the main method of transport for commuters. Trams are far less polluting than trains or buses and certainly cars. Of course, some people in Hammarby still use cars, but they are encouraged to use a car-share system so that the number of private vehicles is reduced. For people trying to be even more eco-friendly, there's a pedestrian and bicycle network, which makes it convenient and safe for residents to get around.

Although Hammarby was planned to provide houses for a large number of people on a fairly small site, there are lots of public green spaces for residents to enjoy. There are also several buildings which have roof gardens, and these help to cool the rooms below in high temperatures.

It is expected that there will eventually be 20 000 residents living in Hammarby in addition to 10 000 workers, and the design for the city has attracted interest from other countries who wish to build similar communities.
